

Digitise the Employee Lifecycle with DocuSign

The world is quickly adopting digital, mobile workflows and HR departments have to adapt. Today's employees and candidates expect flexible employer interactions digitally from anywhere on any device at any time.

Delight candidates and reinforce your company's image

Today's workforce has grown up in a digital world and their expectations for workplace experiences are higher than ever. Printing, signing, scanning or physically returning paperwork such as NDAs, offer letters and releases for background checks is not only a hassle for the candidate, but also reinforces the perception that your company is outdated. DocuSign solutions for HR provides candidates a simpler, digital-friendly hiring experience, enabling them to complete all paperwork wherever they are on almost any device, while establishing a digital-first image of your company.

Modernise your employee experience

HR departments are evolving from an administrative team into a strategic team that optimises a company's most important asset – it's people. But it's not enough to provide an amazing experience for your candidates and new hires, it's also critical to provide a positive employee experience for your HR team. With DocuSign, you can conduct various paper-based processes digitally, meaning you'll cut cycle times, dramatically improving HR operations productivity while streamlining the employee's experience.

Securely ensure data accuracy and simplify compliance

In today's increasingly regulated business environment, it's critical for HR organisations to demonstrate compliance with key processes such as new hire identification checks, security signoffs and audits. Securely managing data has never been as important. With manual processes, companies risk having sensitive and critical data compromised. When it comes to unregulated processes, mistakes in paperwork can not only be costly to the business but can also cause legal trouble. Electronic forms ensure employees don't miss an entry and improve data integrity, while automated reminders help maintain compliance.
